Moore tops '52 Gateway staff; 27 take positions

Forsythe fills Managing Editor spot;
Larkin, McMillan assume news posts

Tom "Tuck" Moore will wield the whip over the Gateway staff this semester. Tuck, a four-year veteran of the newspaper staff, was named to the top position at the first annual publication banquet Monday evening at the Spare-time Cafe.

Tuck moves up from the news editor's desk. Previous to that he had served as copyreader and feature editor. Moore replaces June Williams, who will serve as editorial editor during the spring semester.

Forsythe assists

Assisting Tuck as managing editor will be Berklye Forsythe, former feature editor. Forsythe has held staff positions for three years.

News editors this semester will be Burt McMillan and Joanne Larkin, who will supervise the writing staff and copy desk.

Taking over as the new society editor is Charlotte Weinberg who will be assisted by Eileen Brown. On the sports desk, Bob Peck and Lee Nelson traded positions, with Peck moving up to the editor's desk.

Three-on features

Joyce Erdkamp will serve as feature editor, assisted by Marty Blacker and feature writer Larry Boersma. Putting the "paper to bed" will be the job of makeup editor Howard Brisby. The Gateway photo editor is Mary Ann Conley, with Bill Beindorff as her assistant.

The new dean of the copy desk is Bob Rasmussen, who will supervise the seven copyreaders. The copyreaders are Roger Orr, Lorelee Lemen, George Georgieff, Bob Darrah, Bill Osick, Dorothy Hayes and Paul Chertling. The business staff and Tomahawk editors will remain the same.

Annual copy due Feb. 15

All copy and pictures for the 1952 Tomahawk must be submitted by Feb. 15. Editor Don Badger said work on the yearbook has reached the three-quarter mark.

What happened to Monday?

The fact that the new semester started on Tuesday instead of Monday proved confusing to some students.

Take the professor who addressed his class for 45 minutes on future class procedure, threatening, warning and advising as professors will do. He dismissed them and all left but one.

"Excuse me, sir," he said to the instructor, "what class was that?" Hearing the answer, he shook his head in dismay. "Shucks, I thought today was Monday. I haven't got any Tuesday classes."

Gateway promises by-line for OU 'proxy reporters

So you want your name in print! But you'll have to work a little for it.

In order to probe the darker corners of the university halls for "OU happenings" we would have to be so-o-o sly and have so-o-o many eyes. Therefore, we are asking all students who happen upon a funny incident or quirk in their daily college life to be the Gateway's 'proxy reporters' and turn the article into the Gateway office.

OU Quarterback Club to honor pro footballer Joe Arenas; 49er-Lions movie to be shown

The Quarterback Club of Omaha University will give a luncheon honoring Joe Arenas Monday noon at the Fontenelle hotel Black Mirror Room.

The post-season affair actually has a dual purpose—to honor Arenas, Indian grad now with the San Francisco 49ers, and to kickoff the club's 1952 membership drive.

Bill Fear, a 1950 graduate, will be the toastmaster. Fear was head cheerleader during most of Arenas' football career, and was active in pep clubs at the university.

Arenas will show the movies of the 49er-Detroit Lions football game in which his 51 yard run to the Lions' 10 yard line decided the league championship. By defeating the Lions, the 49er's cinched the football world series for their fellow Californians, the Los Angeles Rams.

After that run, many of the nation's football critics and sports writers who had recognized Arenas' pro-football ability, began to mention his name in the same sentence with the "Freshman of the Year" award.

High school journalists will gather on campus for third annual clinic

High school journalists will further their newspaper educations Feb. 8 at the third annual High School Journalism Conference. The meeting is sponsored by the OU Department of Journalism and will be held at the university.

Each year several panel discussions are held on various problems in journalism. Each high school also submits student stories, photographs, and pages for competition.

George Yates, chief photographer of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, will give the chief address of the conference. Mr. Yates, who is also an instructor in journalism at Drake University, will speak at the dinner to be held at 6 p.m. in the auditorium.

Elwood Scholarship fund . . .

New award allots $250 for four years

The S. H. Elwood Scholarship has been recently established at the University of Omaha. The scholarship will be administered by the University Scholarship Committee.

The scholarship provides $250 each year for four consecutive years. Specific requirements must be met by students wishing to apply for the award. Applications must be filed by male students who are either freshmen presently enrolled or who will be enrolled by next September.

Only those who otherwise would be unable to attend college without a scholarship are eligible for application.

The scholarship has been established in the honor of the late S. H. Elwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Elwood of Omaha.

Further information concerning the scholarship may be obtained from Dean of Students John Lucas, chairman of the scholarship committee, in room 272.

Semester's enrollment is higher than expected

Incomplete registrar's figures list 1226 OU students; late registration continues

Figures released by the Registrar's office yesterday show that enrollment at Omaha University for the second semester of 1951-52 is lower than the enrollment figure for the first semester. However, the present figure is higher than expected by the administration.

As of yesterday, 1,321 students had been processed in the Registrar's Office, with 1,226 of these students having paid their enrollment fees and all or part of their tuition. At this time last year, 1,390 students had been processed and 1,232 had paid their fees.

The figures for day school indicate a drop from last semester's enrollment. 1,477 students were enrolled at OU last term.

Late fee added

Registrar Alice Smith's figures show 940 students processed for the School of Adult Education with 632 having paid their fees. Corresponding figures from last year at this time show 1,113 students processed with 1,038 having paid fees.

Late registration until Feb. 11 is expected to swell the student ranks of both day and night school.

A late registration fee of $3 was charged last week and beginning Monday, an additional $1 fee will be added.

Bus Ad holds first seminar

The first of the vocational guidance seminars will open Feb. 12 when the Accounting department holds sessions for three days. Exhibits and talks will feature men who are leaders in the various branches of accounting practice. Students may attend the discussion seminars to be held at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Feb. 12, 13, and 14.

Day, night sessions

The seminars will be held in Room 209 and will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. In addition to the day seminars, the room will be open on Wednesday evening, Feb. 13, for the convenience of students in the School of Adult Education.

The seminars will continue until each department on the campus has held session. Each department will be responsible for appointing student leaders and securing speakers.

Accounting first

The sessions provide vocational information regarding job opportunities in the specific fields. They are also being held to present data regarding the practical and theoretical education necessary to prepare students for employment in their field.

Paul Crossman will head the seminar on accounting, the first in the series. On the following weeks, Dr. Frances Holliday will direct a group discussion of elementary education.

Faculty decides on double major

Ambitious and energetic OU students will have an opportunity to study two majors simultaneously.

The faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences at OU have voted to adopt a new academic proposal, the double major, at the College meeting held last week. The double major allows students recognition for meeting the scholastic requirements in two fields of learning, instead of the usual one.

J. M. Earl, Chairman of the Curriculum Committee of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Professor of mathematics, announced the faculty decision. "The double major has its origin in student request," he said, "and is therefore an incident in the democratic tradition which has developed in the College of Arts and Sciences over a period of years."

The new action is to be put into effect during the second semester of the current academic year.

Student Council discusses time schedule for lounge

The student lounge will continue a trial period of remaining open until 5 p.m. each week day except Friday.

Discussed and acted on by the Student Council, the trial period began the week before Christmas vacation to offer students a place for study and relaxation from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m.

KWOU to start programs

Campus Radio Station KWOU will resume broadcasting next week when the installation of new amplifiers is completed.

The station will broadcast on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Jaycee head promotes campus groups for men

"I don't know anything that will combat communism and socialism and all the other subversive ideas better than the Junior Chamber of Commerce." With these words, Lee Price, national president of the Jaycees, explained the purpose of a proposed campus Jaycee club for OU.

Price said that there are three groups active in colleges and universities in Kansas. He explained that the clubs are not active in the political activities of campus life, but they are instrumental in promoting improvements on the campus and in building better relations between the university and the community.

Although they would not be members of the Jaycees, the group would believe in the Jaycee creed and would be potential members of the older group.

Earl states opinion on military training

The bill to put Universal Military Training into operation is still being discussed by the House Armed Services committee.

The Jan. 18 issue of The Gateway called for opinions of faculty members and students on this important question. In response, J. M. Earl, professor of mathematics at OU, submitted the following:

"Peace time universal conscription is, I think, the outstanding issue of this century because it affects the lives of every American. At present, all men are subject to selection for service if needed, but to extend this to UMT which subjects all men to the vagaries of military regulation, seems contrary to the interests of freedom and democracy.

"Over 15 years of the most clever sort of propaganda by the proponents of UMT, is a weak basis for the enactment of such legislation I am convinced. It seems to me that UMT, if enacted, might well serve as an instrument for further consolidation of communism in the world even as our well meaning expedition into Korea has in China."

For Sale: Four sets of initials of the losing candidates in the election of King Satan IV. Since the new King was not elected until the dance, the gift committee of Alpha Xi had to get five sets of initials to insert in the cuff links that was the King's prize as winner.

In order to make language learning easier, Dr. Christopher Espinosa will use tape recorders supplied by the Audio-visual department. This way, the students can hear the errors that they make in pronunciation and will learn more easily the correct way to say "Je t'aime."

OU grad Joe Baker was chairman of the noise committee for the Mothers' March on Polio last night. Baker, former alumni president, tooted the horns and blew the sirens ahead of time for a picture in the World-Herald.

It was a serious moment at the Gateway party. The new editor was announcing his staff when a door near the speakers' table was opened by a "spirited" gentleman wearing dark glasses and holding a half-full glass. "Oh, I must have the wrong room," he said. He tried another door to the dining room. Little later, but looked cautiously before opening the door more than a crack.

For those with no pull . . .

It's finally happened. Students at Iowa State Teachers College can get a date by calling up a university number and placing their order.

A special office called the Social Life office is open in the afternoons to take orders. Said an article in the student sheet, "The bureau will take over and make any necessary arrangements." It did not say whether or not the "necessary arrangements" included the money to pay for the mail order date.

Sleepyheads awake! New regime requires insomniacs not cadets

Achtung! All aspirants for Air ROTC cadet ranks are ordered to report at 7 a.m. instead of the former afternoon hours to take written promotion tests.

Lieutenant Robert Biegel, promotion mogul, has announced the aforementioned regulation as a part of the new regime. Sleepless cadets will also be required to wear the full uniform and to enter the testing room rendering a salute complete with reporting spiel to the testing officer.

The new procedure will go into effect immediately and is expected to instill an air of discipline into the promotion process.

When your ALARM jangles in your ear at 6:15 . . . don't pull the plug and roll over . . . just jump out of your warm sack, hurry right over to 60th and Dodge and climb that first step on the endless promotion ladder. Sic semper in Morpheus!

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

POOR PAUL was having a fowl time. Even his best gal didn't give a hoot for him. "Wise she hate me so?" he asked his roommate. "Simple, you stuffy old bird—because your hair's always ruffled up! Better try Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic. It's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. And does tree things: Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Grooms hair neatly and naturally all day long. (Even limbers up your scalp. And helps you pass the Finger-Nail Nest-er, Test!) Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now he's a 'owling success. So why don't you take a taxi-dermist to any drug or toilet goods counter to get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. It's your hair's best friend! And ask for it at your barber shop. Then there's no talon how the chicks'll go for you.

Let's not muff it . . .

Athletic relations with Creighton University will be renewed tonight after a year's lapse. Omaha U's five will meet the Bluejays in the Fieldhouse for the first contest since the '49-'50 season when OU took two setbacks.

When the two teams meet, competitive spirit will be running high—as it should be. Competition is the incentive for progress.

But sometimes that "incentive" can be carried too far. The renewal of relations with Creighton ends an unfortunate disagreement between the two universities. And it begins a period which should be to the advantage of both institutions.

Basketball spectators will be watching two teams from two outstanding schools—both of the same city. They will see competition between two universities that have their foremost ambitions in common—the development of intelligent Americans.

When we entertain Creighton's students tonight, it will be our chance to show them we're glad to have them back on our sports schedule. And it will be our chance to, prove ourselves and our university.

Let's not muff it.

. . . Alums aren't partial

Last fall 32 Omaha businessmen gathered together and became members of OU's Quarterback Club, an organization formed to back the university football team.

The club, now totaling approximately 200, filmed all of the Indians games played away from home so that they, as well as the coaches, could witness the progress of the team.

Monday the Quarterbackers will meet to honor Joe Arenas, rookie star of the Los Angeles '49ers and former OU football headliner. Also attending the luncheon will be a number of prospective Quarterbacks.

The whole point of this run-down is that these men have joined to promote Omaha University and its athletic activities. It was mentioned in the above editorial that Omaha plays Creighton University tonight.

We would like to point out at this time that the president of the Quarterback Club is Warren Cook, a graduate of Creighton University.

Omaha Indians Seek Upset

Cagers seek first win over potent Creighton

After a one season lull, Omaha and Creighton University will resume athletic warfare tonight in the Omaha Fieldhouse.

Game time is 8 p.m. with a B team game preceding it at 6.

The Bluejays will be fighting hard to attempt to gain their fourth win of the season. The Jays have dropped nine.

The Creightonians have faced some topnotch competition. For instance, on their trip east, they ran into such squads as Seton Hall, Villanova and Lawrence Tech of Detroit.

OU has top slate

At home they have entertained Iowa State and Kansas University, both contenders in the Big Seven.

The Indians on the other hand, are sporting a 9-4 slate, although against much smaller schools.

Indian Coach Don Pflasterer stated that his boys are "up" for this game and will be fighting all the way.

The Red and Black has one jinx to overcome. They have never beaten the Jays. The closest Omaha has come was in the 1949-50 season when the Indians pressed, 51-56.

Indians down two

Coach Pflasterer has been working his squad for this game all week. He has a combination of seven players he can throw against the Jays.

These seven are Don Clausen, Lee Nelson, Fred Shinrock, Bob Rose, Bob Moscrey, Joe Gurnett and Bob Mackie.

The Indians not only have to be at their best on offense to beat the Bluejays, but they will have to throw up an effective defense around Creighton's high scoring squad.

Jays have height

Creighton will have the edge in the height department. The Jays will start a team that averages 6 ft. 3 in. Short man on the squad is Paul Gradoville, high scoring guard. Gradoville stands at 5 ft. 10 in.

At the other extreme, is big Bill Heyden. An All-city player at Creighton Prep, Heyden is 6 ft. 6 in.

A capacity house is expected for tonight's fray. Students must present their second semester activity card for admission.

A limited number of seats will be reserved for OU students until 7:45 p.m. when they will be open to the public.

Omaha team downs Doane, Wesleyan to boost record

Adding two more victories, the Indian cage squad pushed their record to nine wins and four losses at the expense of Doane and Nebraska Wesleyan. Doane fell at the hands of the Indians, 63-49, in the OU Fieldhouse last Saturday.

Bob Rose was the big gun for Omaha, as he cut loose in the second half with six buckets to total 15 points.

The Indians traveled to Lincoln to down the Wesleyan five, 51-38, Monday. Don Clausen led the winners with 12 points.

Gorr calls track meet today

Head Track Coach Ernie Gorr announced a meeting for all indoor trackmen today at 2 p.m. It will be held in the varsity locker room.

Coach Gorr's track squad is preparing for a series of indoor meets set for this spring.

A capacity throng on hand tonight

As you all know, tonight Omaha University renews its athletic battles with its cross-town rival, Creighton University.

This is THE opportunity for OU fans to turn out in force and really support the team. This year we have a top-notch squad of which we should be proud.

Students who are always "busy" on game nights are the ones taking a loss. They have been missing a chance to see a smooth-working, well-coached team well on its way toward registering the best post-war record on the Indian slate.

But, being at the game is only half the job! This is OUR team. When the boys score, or when the cheer leaders strike up a yell, let's really let the team know who's behind them!

Tonight we enter the game with the Creighton team with a far superior record for the season. Granted, the Jays have met some stiff competition. But this is no reason for them to expect a breeze over OU.

Let's everyone of us be there tonight to show the Creighton fans that our team can not only put salt on those Bluejay tails, but that our cheering will be ringing in their ears as they go back to the Hilltop!

Theta Ph Delta keeps undefeated string intact with double win; Sigma Phi Epsilon loses first encounter

Theta Phi Delta won two more games in the past week to stretch their undefeated string to six games. The Theta's dropped the ROTC 34-29 and the Sig Lambs 68-17.

All games on the intramural card for today have been cancelled but the Monday bill sends the Sig Ep "B" against Theta Chi "B" and the Blackhawks tackle the Sig Ep regulars.

Although idle, the Black-hawks have won three times in three outings to tie for first place as the Sig Eps lost their first encounter of the season to Theta Chi, 37-29.

In "B" league competition, Blackhawks and the Sig Eps are unbeaten with two victories to pace the league. Theta's have also won two games while Theta Chi has copped their only outing to lead the fraternity loop.

Wiren uses knockout to cop Omaha Golden Gloves crown

By Lee Nelson

Outweighed by 48 pounds, John Wiren, OU gridder turned boxer, blasted his way to the Omaha Golden Gloves heavy-weight crown by knocking out John Earnest in the third round of the final match, Saturday, Jan. 26.

After scoring a second round knockout in his semi-final bout, Wiren was floored three times before putting the 228 pound Earnest to sleep in the Saturday finale.

Wiren was originally entered as a light-heavyweight, but when he weighed in at 180, five pounds over the maximum, he was forced to match punches with the heavier boys.

According to Wiren, the secret of his success was to keep inside the big boys' murderous blows which had won Earnest his two previous fights handily.

Apparently fatigued, Earnest dropped his guard just enough to enable Wiren to land the killer punch in the big third round.

Wiren is also quite a standout on the Indian grid squad where he played backfield last season besides playing a rugged line-backing game on defense.

John Wiren . . . Golden Gloves heavyweight champ.

Lynx coach fills baseball position

The head baseball coach position left vacant by the absence of Virg Yelkin has been filled by Thurman E. Johnson, head basketball coach at Abraham Lincoln, Council Bluffs, Ia.

Johnson will not resign his present position, as he is not coaching spring sports at the Council Bluffs high school. He will also teach a baseball theory class at the University.

Johnson has been at Abraham Lincoln since 1948. He coached at Manilla, Ia., high school and served four years in the Naval Air Corps Reserves before going to Abe Lincoln.

The new baseball coach received his B.S. in business administration from Simpson College, Indianola, Ia., in 1940, and his M.A. from the University of Omaha in 1950.
